The Church Meetings

Proceedings of Both Presbyterian Assemblies.

AT NEW YORK AND CHATTANOOGA

Foreign Correspondence the Order of the Day at the Northern Assembly, While a Hot Debate Occupies Nearly the Entire Time of the Southern Meeting.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The general order of the day, "foreign correspondence" was the first work taken up by the Presbyterian general assembly. The moderator introduced Rev. Dr. Clark of the Philadelphia reformed church, who spoke of the work done in foreign lands by the reformed church. In an appropriate reply by the moderator, in which he thanked Dr. Clarke for his attendance, he expressed the hope that he would live to see the day when the Reformed church and the Presbyterian church would walk together, they were both Calvanistic and both preached good doctrines.

Rev. Mr. Prochet, a minister of the Waldensian church in Rome, Italy, made a strong appeal for the Presbyterian church in Italy.

The committee of foreign correspondence then asked to withdraw for a time, and the request was granted.

The report of the special committee on education was then presented. The report shows that there are an unusually large number of churches without pastors, and this was so because of the need of funds to educate young men to fill their places, and the scarcity of men to educate.

The principal business at the afternoon session was the consideration of the report of the committee on fraternal co-operation in Christian work. The first recommendation of the committee, relative to co-operation in foreign mission work, was adopted. The second, relative to co-operation in the home field, was debated at some length. Elder Curry opposed the recommendation as unwise and ill-timed. Rev. W. S. Fulton, of Kentucky, said the adoption of the recommendation would seriously impede the church's work in the south. Mr. Day said the southern general assembly had adopted such a recommendation, and the northern church should prove the genuineness of its professions of good feeling by taking the same step.

Dr. Crosby spoke in a similar vein and spoke very warmly of the southern church. "If we went south to live we would join that church as a matter of course," he said. Many southern members urged the adoption of the recommendation, as a step toward assimilating the factions. Mr. D. C. Harrold, of Texas, said there was so little difference between the northern and southern churches that unless a person inquired he would not know which he was a member of.

Dr. William C. Young, of Louisville, favored the report, as did also Mr. Thomas Kane, of Chicago. Mr. W. H. Hubbard, of Cayuga, asked what the board of home missions thought of the subject.

Mr. Walker, of Kansas City, and Dr. Kendall, secretary of that board, said the board favored the recommendation. The recommendation was then adopted. The third recommendation for co-operation in evangelization of the colored people was up for discussion when the hour of adjournment arrived.

A Day of Discussion.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 24. The sixth day's session of the southern general assembly of the Presbyterians convened yesterday morning. The report of the committee having been concluded, the question of organic co-operation was taken up. As soon as the question was opened for discussion there was a movement set on foot to put it before the assembly, without allowing the members to express their opinion. Dr. Woodrow opposed taking away the liberties of members.

The moderator gave notice that speakers would be required to confine themselves to the following four questions to be considered: First, a touching upon the doctrine of the spirituality of the church. The northern assembly at Baltimore in 1888 had said that "the synods and councils are not to handle or conclude anything that is not ecclesiastic nor meddle with civil affairs, unless by humble petitions in extraordinary cases, or, by way of advice for the satisfaction of conscience, if they be thereunto required by civil magistrates. Second, the northern church at that meeting thought that more good would be done if the colored and white churches were united. Third, as regards boards which are chartered corporations. The educational, home missions, foreign missions and publication boards that were in existence prior to the separation." Fourth, as to the doctrine, they said: There is no question of doctrine or policy agitating any part of the church. The reunion of 1869 was effected on a standard basis without condition. The roll was called and each member was allowed a five minutes' talk. Dr. Woodrow was one of the speakers, and at least one hundred delegates expressed themselves, and the debate was hardly finished at the evening session.

Reformed Episcopalians.

BOSTON, May 24.—The general council of Reformed Episcopal church was addressed by Bishop Cridge, of Victoria, B. C., who gave an interesting account of the work performed in British Columbia. In his report in regard to work among colored people near Charleston Bishop Lahaise, of Baltimore, said that anticipation formed in regard to the work had not been realized, owing to the inability to put resident missionaries in the field. Bishop Stevens, of Canada, and Rev. Philip Eldridge, of London, England, presented reports of the condition of churches in their district. Various amendments to the canons were adopted. The general committee held an executive session in the evening.

EXECUTION BY ELECTRICITY.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 24.—Gen. Austin Lathrop, the superintendent of state prisons, was busy yesterday holding a conference with the three prison wardens respecting various needs of the prisons. One of the chief matters of business discussed was the placing in Sing Sing, Auburn and Clinton prisons, of the electrical apparatus for the execution of murderers. The first prisoner to be executed under the new law, unless the courts interfere, will be Kleimer, the Buffalo murderer, who has been sentenced to die by an electrical stroke on June 27.

Before that date the electrical apparatus, which is being constructed under a contract made with Harold P. Brown, of New York, will have been delivered at the three prisons. But superintendent Lathrop does not expect the first execution under the new method will take place on June 27. "Lawyers usually appeal to the higher courts in cases of sentences for murder," he said yesterday, "and I hear that a stay of proceedings will be asked in this case, which the courts, as usual, will grant. We may not have any execution under the new law, therefore, before next year."

One of the remarkable features of the adoption of the method of carrying out capital punishment by the use of electricity is the fright that several electric light companies have had lest the state should make use of their electric light apparatus as an apparatus for taking the lives of criminals. One of these companies, which has shouted from the housetops that the current of electricity through its wires is "harmless" and would not destroy human life, has been in a tremor lest Mr. Brown should copy its "safe" apparatus for the use of the state in depriving murderers of life.

Gen. Lathrop says there seems to be a world-wide interest in the execution of criminals by electricity. The state's first contract for an electric killing apparatus calls for the contractor to furnish before June 21 the following:

One 650 light alternating current dynamo, with electro-motive force variable at will from 1,000 to 2,000 volts; each dynamo to be furnished with an exciter and a rheostat; one Carlew voltmeter, with extra resistance coil, calibrated for a range of 30 to 2,000 volts; one ammeter for alternating currents from 0.1 to 3.00 amperes; one Wheatstone bridge and rheostat; 6 switches; 2 sets of electrodes; 2 sets of bell signals; 4,000 feet more or less as required, water proof insulated wire of high insulation resistance, and a sufficient number of insulators for same.

Discovered Just in Time.

PITTSBURG, May 24.—A special from Corry, Pa., says there was a narrow escape from a disaster on the Western New York and Pennsylvania railroad yesterday at the "Goose Hollow" trestle, between Brocton and Prospect. The trestle is 500 feet long and ninety-two feet high. The operator at Brocton forgot to deliver an order to hold a train until another had arrived. The two trains were approaching the trestle from opposite directions around a curve, when a farmer's little boy, who was working in a pasture near by, saw the danger, ran up the track and flagged one of the trains. The train was unable to stop until it reached the end of the trestle. The engineer of the other train also managed to stop just before reaching the trestle.

Five People Roasted to Death.

NORFOLK, Va., May 24.—A Virginian special from Virginia Beach says: The house of Rev. F. C. Clark, five miles from this place, was burned at 1 a. m. Mr. Clark, his two daughters, son and a niece were roasted to death in the burning building. Mrs. Clark and two children and the governess, Miss Ella Bidgood, escaped by jumping from the windows in their night clothes. The fire is thought to be of incendiary origin. Mr. Clark was pastor of the London Bridge Baptist church, in Princess, Anne county, and a preacher of great ability. There is much excitement here, and if the incendiary is discovered there is little doubt of his being strung to the nearest tree.

The Old Law Goes.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 24.—The motion of the lawyers for the two Chinamen charged with enticing young girls into their laundries to quash the prosecution on account of defects in the law, owing to clerical errors made during the legislative session last winter, was overruled by the court this morning, and the Mongolians will be tried under the law that existed at the time of the crime. The testimony given was similar to that on the preliminary trial.

Wrecked on the Lakes.

CHICAGO, May 24.—The steamer Alky has arrived here with intelligence that the bark Lizzie Williams, carrying a crew of twenty-seven men and ninety-seven Chinese, was wrecked on Tugidak island, a barren and uninhabitable shoal, April 12. Six Chinese and two seamen were drowned. The vessel and cargo, worth $130,000, are a total loss.

To Purchase Cuba.

TALLAHASSE, Fla., May 25. A memorial to congress was introduced in the Florida house of representatives a few days ago, asking that the United States propose to Spain a guarantee of $100,000,000, to be paid in annual installments of $5,000,000 each, for the purchase of Cuba, the United States to assume a protectorate over the island until the entire sum is paid. The memorial was introduced by Representative Morene and was referred to the judiciary committee.

The Chilian Minister

He Wants a Mail Line to His Own Country.

GOOD PROSPECTS OF SUCCESS.

A Parcel Post and Money Order Convention Between the United States and South America Will Soon Be Established—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Senor Don Emelie G. Veras, minister from Chili to the United States, called at the post-office department and had an interview with Postmaster General Wanamaker and Acting Superintendent of Foreign Mails Brooks, in relation to having a parcel post and money order convention between the United States and Chili.

There are now no parcel post or money order conventions between the United States and the South American countries, though conventions are in operation between the United States and several countries as far south as Central America. After an interchange of views Senor Veras was given a copy of the convention between the United States and Mexico. The matter will be further considered.

Why He Resigned.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—John T. McGraw, collector of internal revenue for the district of West Virginia, has resigned. In his letter of resignation he says: "In thus voluntarily retiring from the office to which I succeeded in the early months of Mr. Cleveland's administration, I think proper to say that I do so for the purpose of enabling the present administration to place an incumbent of its choice in this office, free and unembarrassed by any act or desire of mine. I insisted upon this, as the true theory and proper policy in relation to offices of such grade and character as that of collector of internal revenue four years ago, and I have never altered that opinion."

His Claim for a Pension.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Assistant Secretary Bussy, of the interior department, in the case of William Powell, who claims a pension on the ground that a comrade struck him with a demijohn, has directed a re-examination. The claim was rejected by the pension office on the ground that at the time of the injury Powell had been mustered out of the service. Powell claims, however, that he was on his way to receive his final pay at the time of the accident. Mr. Bussy holds that he was in the service, although his discharge paper bore date of two weeks before the assault.

Treaty With Denmark.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Denmark and the United States have made ratification of a treaty for the arbitration of the claim of Carlos Butterfield against the government of the former country for losses and injuries to the United States, vessels at the hands of the authorities of the Danish West Indies in the years of 1881 and 1885. The two vessels, while in distress, attempted to make an anchorage at a port on one of these islands but were prevented doing so by the Danish authorities, who fired at them.

Cruisers Nine, Ten and Eleven.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Advertisements for bids for building three new 2,000 ton unarmored cruisers for the navy are being prepared at the navy department. The vessels will be known as cruiser 9, 10 and 11, and are to be built at a cost not exceeding $700,000 each. It was left discretionary by congress with the navy department to build either gunboats or cruisers, and the latter were chosen.

Three Important Appointments.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—It is authoritively stated that the appointment of two international revenue collectors, one for Philadelphia, a second comptroller and one auditor of the treasury, will be made this week. The names of the persons to be appointed were agreed upon at a conference between the president and Secretary Windom, on Wednesday.

Letter Robber Arrested.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Robert Powell, a colored laborer in the registry division of the Washington City post-office, was arrested yesterday while in the act of rifling a registered letter. He was committed to jail in default of bail.

GLOOMY FOR THE DOCTORS.

Coroner's Inquest in the Case of Mind Reader Bishop.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The inquest in the case of the mind reader, W. Irving Bishop, was begun yesterday afternoon. Clay M. Greene, the dramatist, testified that he had seen Bishop in cataleptic fits before the one which caused his death. The fact was brought out by this witness that Dr. Irwin refused to call in Dr. Robertson, Bishop's regular physician, on the ground that he was not friendly with Robertson. Witness further testified that Bishop's muscles were not rigid when the electric shock was applied. The shock was so severe as to twist the body around.

J. G. Ritchie, the theatrical manager, testified that he had often seen Bishop in trances that differed in no respect from the final one.

Louis Aldrich, who, it is said, claims that the doctors took from Bishop a paper asking that care be taken not to cut him up or bury him alive, will be examined to-morrow; also, Henry E. Dixey, Sadie Martinot and other friends of the deceased.

One Year for Infanticide.

BOSTON, May 25.—Catherine O'Donnell has been sentenced to one year's imprisonment, having been convicted of manslaughter in drowning her infant.

The Cronin Murder.

Latest Developments in the Mysterious Crime.

A STARTLING REVELATION.

Some of the Chicago Police Force Believed to Know More About the Murder Than They are Willing to Tell—The Mystery Will Soon Be Solved According to the Detectives.

CHICAGO, May 24.—The very latest developments in the Cronin murder case justify the belief that the guilty parties will soon be apprehended. The police are now holding an important secret discussion in Capt. Wing's office in Lake View, and there is no doubt that something important is under discussion. Judge Longenecker, when seen by a United Press reporter, said that the police were on the trail of one of the principals in the crime, and he believed the whole conspiracy would be laid bare within a few hours.

The case has been placed in the hands of Detective William Pinkerton, and the work of ferreting out the actual conspirators is now being pushed. There are three suspects. Two of them are under surveillance. These men are believed to be so closely associated with the foul murder as to be able to tell how it was consummated. There is another class of suspects. These are the leading conspirators, who, while they probably took no hand in the actual assassination, gave it their endorsement if not their hearty support.

The party friends of Dr. Cronin have begun their work of investigation on a cautious basis. Their experience soon after the mysterious disappearance of Dr. Cronin has satisfied them that the influence which worked to kill the Irish leader permeated a no more powerful body than the Chicago police force. When the inexplicable absence of Dr. Cronin was first announced the police authorities assigned as detectives on the case two men whom friends of the dead man have every reason to believe were not desperately anxious to solve the mystery, and are industriously taking up the records of Detectives Mike Whelan and Dan. Coughlin, of the Chicago avenue station.

Whelan is a cousin of Sullivan, the ice man, and Coughlin is said to be a member of an Irish society that was arrayed against the doctor. Whelan and Coughlin belonged to the original detail that Capt. Schaack sent out to Lake View to investigate the trunk mystery.

It is a singular coincidence that Sullivan, the ice man, ordered and obtained the peculiar business cards—one of which was presented by an unknown man to Dr. Cronin a very short time previous to the murder. Sullivan has been sharply questioned on this subject and said that the cards had been printed for him a long time ago at the office of The Lake View Record, but a reference to the books of the printing office failed to show any record of the transaction. Though Sullivan is not under arrest he is being closely shadowed by three men who are said to be operatives of the Pinkerton agency.

Justice Mahoney, who introduced Sullivan to Dr. Cronin, is also under surveillance. The latter made a statement to States Attorney Longnecker yesterday, in which he reiterated nearly all that he previously said relative to his acquaintance with the doctor. He said that the introduction of the two men was brought about by a chance meeting, and that so far as he knew Sullivan only took advantage of it to close a profitable deal for the doctor's professional services. Mahoney denies any knowledge of a plot to injure the doctor, and he has gone so far as to state that he does not believe that Sullivan had anything to do with the murder.

John Joseph Cronin, an elder brother of the murdered man, arrived in the city yesterday from Bradford, Ark., where he has a farm. He is decidedly a granger in appearance and not very familiar with the ways of the city. He was taken down to view the body in the Lake View police station, and after he had overcome his first repulsion and mastered his feelings sufficiently, made a very careful examination of it. "There can be no doubt at all that that is my brother's body," he said, "I know it beyond all questions," and he wiped a tear from his eye as he said so. "No, I don't know how he was killed or why. I am leaving all the arrangements for the funeral and everything to his friends. I shall stay here until he is buried, and perhaps to settle up his estate, but I don't know anything at all about what they are doing toward discovering his murderers. I am not very well acquainted here yet and hardly know what is being done."

SHE HAD A BIG BROTHER,

Who Wouldn't Allow Her to Run Away With a Showman.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 24.—Fort Branch, a station on the Evansville and Terre Haute railroad, some fifteen miles from this city, was treated to a sensation yesterday. Miss Smith, a handsome 18-year-old girl, eloped with an attache of a small show filling a date there. He goes under numerous aliases.

They were seen to leave town, and the girl's brother and friends gave chase with shotguns and overtook the elopers a few miles out of town. The circus man escaped in advance of several bullets. The girl almost went into hysterics but was returned home to repent.

Dick Hawes Sentenced.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 24.—Dick Hawes, the murderer of his wife and children, was sentenced late last night in the criminal court to be hanged July 12 next.

LABOR TROUBLES.

B. & O. Shop Workmen Thrown Out of Employment.

BALTIMORE, May 24.—There is much apprehension among the workmen at the Mt. Clare shops of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company that most of them will soon be without employment. It is the avowed purpose of the company, as stated a few weeks ago, to have all its new construction work done at private shops in New Hampshire, New York and other states, and the hardship to Baltimore railroad mechanics resultant from this policy is already beginning to be felt.

Within the past few days thirty-eight men have been dropped from the blacksmiths shops at Mt. Clare, and it is said that sixty more blacksmiths were notified yesterday afternoon that they would be dismissed. The working force of Mt. Clare lately has been about 1,600 men. It is the opinion of many men that nine-tenths of the force will be discharged within a month.

No Strike This Year.

PITTSBURG, May 24.—The Western Association of Window Glass Manufacturers at a special meeting here yesterday, appointed a committee to meet the workmen and arrange the wage scale for the ensuing year. It was decided that factories can be closed at any time desired at or near the end of June. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and other states were represented. Trade was declared to be good, with a bright outlook. The new scale will probably differ but little from the present one and no strike is anticipated this year as both employers and workmen seem satisfied.

Watching the Workmen.

PITTSBURG, May 24.—It is reported that Carnegie, Phipps & Company have sworn in twenty special officers, and that they are now on duty in their steel works at Homestead. The object, it is said, is to keep the firm posted as to the actions of the men and their movements relative to the proposed reduction of wages which is to take effect on June 1. Every move so far made indicates that the firm will insist upon the reduction at all hazards. The workmen declare they will strike if the notice of reduction is not withdrawn.

Quit Work Again.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 24.—The molders who returned to work at Bathbone, Sard & Company's shops yesterday, pending arbitration of their difficulty, a proposed reduction of 10 per cent., quit work again to-day because the firm wanted to withhold the 10 per cent. reduction from the men's wages pending the decision of the arbitrators. This the men refused to agree to and quit work until the arbitrators agree upon a basis of settlement.

CROPS INJURED.

Considerable Damage Done by Frost in Various Localities.

HILLSBORO, O., May 24.—A light frost here Wednesday night gave hope that there would be no damage in the county. Farmers coming in from different points, however, bring discouraging news. They say that in the valleys wheat, corn, potatoes, fruit and vegetables have been badly damaged. In Fairfield township thin ice formed on the young peaches, and in many places the potatoes are flat on the ground. The wheat is just heading out, and it is feared that the damage to it will be heavy.

A Whiteoak farmer says that on the 5th of June, 1859, there was a frost that cut the corn, which was knee high, but it came up again all right, and he thinks therefore that no serious damage can result to the corn, now apparently so badly injured.

Frost in Wabash County, Indiana.

WABASH, Ind., May 24.—The thermometer in this locality Wednesday night dropped to the freezing point, and a heavy frost fell in all parts of the county. Vegetables are almost destroyed, and the growing corn was seriously damaged, the blades curling up and turning black. The weather Wednesday night and yesterday was the coldest ever known in this section at a similar period of the year.

Great Damage Done in Knox County, O.

MT. VERNON, O., May 24.—There was a very heavy frost here yesterday morning, and great damage was done to crops and fruit. Wheat was badly frozen, and many grapevines were destroyed. Corn and potatoes also suffered in the western part of the county. There was a heavy fall of snow Wednesday morning.

BOMB-THROWING IN BOSTON.

Dwelling Partially Wrecked, But No One Injured, the Family Being Absent.

BOSTON, May 24.—About 9 o'clock last night a bomb was thrown through a window of the house of Mrs. C. M. Weld, on Center street, Jamaica Plain, by some unknown person. There was no one in the house at the time except a servant girl named Rogers, who was in the kitchen, and she fortunately escaped unhurt.

The side of the house was partially blown out, and a large hole was made in the kitchen floor by the force of the explosion. The missile was made of a piece of gas pipe about a foot in length, filled with bullets and with both ends closed by caps. Many of the slugs were found imbedded in the walls. There is no clew to the perpetrator of the outrage.

When her hatches were removed it was discovered that she was still on fire. Water and steam were used for hours, and finally the fire was extinguished. The cargo is almost a total loss.

Troops Ordered Out.

ROME, May 24.—The disturbances among the agricultural laborers in various districts of Italy continue. A LABORER'S LUCK.

A Case Involving Millions of Omaha Property Decided in His Favor.

TACOMA, Wash., May 23.—Twenty or thirty years ago Robert Shields, then a comparatively young man, acquired a homestead on the banks of the Missouri river, on the site where the city of Omaha now stands.

After perfecting his title he left for California with his wife and family, and there acquired a considerable amount of property. Some twelve years ago he quarreled with his family and left his California property in the hands of an agent. Shields moved to Puget sound, and has for some years been working as a day laborer in Puyallup, eight miles from here. After he left for California the Omaha Townsite company jumped his claim and included it in the land it sold.

Shields commenced suit against the company sixteen years ago, and the case has been in the courts ever since. He has received word that the supreme court of the United States has decided the case in his favor, and that the damages have been assessed at $22,000,000. Shields has sent his brother, who is a state senator of Nebraska, a power of attorney with instructions to go ahead with the enforcement of the judgment obtained. Shields is a man of 58 or 60 years old, and has many friends throughout the country.

The farmers hereabouts are all through planting corn, but the cold, wet weather of the past few days has given the cutworms a chance to injure it and some fields will have to be replanted.

Wheat is growing nicely and the prospects are flattering for a large yield.

Business appears to be improving. The greatest difficulty our merchants have to contend against is collecting their accounts.

The A and B Grammar teacher has not yet been elected. The rate of taxation, as reported by the finance committee, is six mills tuition and contingent, two mills bond funds; total 8 mills.

There will be a game of base ball here on Decoration Day. The boys of our club have secured fine grounds and intend to make things lively in the ball line this summer. Any club that wishes to play the Prospect boys can be accommodated without very much controversy on the subject, on their home grounds.

Chicago, May 23. Mrs. Henry F. Perrine, mother of Mrs. Cleveland, left for the west Wednesday night over the Burlington road with Mr. Perrine. The couple took precautions to prevent their destination becoming generally known.

LaRue.

News items are scarce, but it may be that I have not heard all that has happened in and around LaRue.

On Monday evening the school board met and elected teachers for the ensuing year. Prof. Berry was elected principal, D. Kemper first assistant, and Mr. Crabtree and Miss Grace Baldwin, of LaRue, Miss Willard, of Marseilles, Miss Henry, of Hardin county fill the different departments. The elections all gave satisfaction excepting one, that of Mr. Crabtree, who is the only one that is inexperienced. However, he was elected without much opposition, and he is a young man of good appearance and good habits and will probably prove himself worthy of the position elected to. He is a son of Rev. Crabtree. School boards should be careful in hiring teachers and select only such as are well educated and possess natural qualifications for teaching. A large and commodious school house filled with poor teachers is not a desirable place to send children to be educated.

We frequently hear grumbling about the county board of school examiners being too severe that they are not close enough in their examinations and not practical enough in their questions. I believe the object is to ascertain and ed ties' qualifications to teach, and, if so, many of the questions asked are not intended, in my opinion, to lead to a proper standard in this direction. When I was on examination in the medical college one professor opened up by asking me a hod-podge question, which I told him I could not answer, and he laughed and said he shall do all of the more that. This was all I heard on in passing to each professor. The question was put for a puzzle and there was nothing in it, and that question can be likened to many asked by our county examining board.

Present report says that a young man up in Grand town ship committed suicide by taking strychnine. Hope it is not true.

About 100 beautiful fat hogs passed going to LaRue to be shipped.

I am at present inclined to stand for Foraker for governor, if he will accept and wants to run again. Who would be likely to make a more successful canvass and help the state ticket more? And when have we ever had a better governor than he has been? We have a red hot canvass to make and must prepare for it, and he could lead it with a vim. We must be harmonious and carry Ohio by 20,00 plurality. C.

Needed No Sympathy.

"I am truly sorry, Johnny," said the friend of the family, meeting the little boy on the street, "to learn that your father's house was burned down yesterday. Was nothing saved?"

"Don't you waste no grief on me," replied Johnny. "All of pap's old clothes was burned up in that fire, and maw can't make any of 'em over for me this time. Tum-tiddle-diddum tum whoop-de-doodle-doo!" Chicago Tribune.

Just Sudden Enough.

Recommended It.

"Speaking about books," said one of the men, a tall fellow with red hair, "have you read that wonderful novel, 'Sedge Grass Ranch?'"

"No; is it good?"

"Finest thing I ever read in my life."

"Indeed?"

"Yes, sir, one of the finest things in the English language."

"That's saying a great deal for an American novel."

"Yes, but I am justified, by the excellence of the book, in making the assertion, and, as you are a reading man, I would advise you to buy it as soon as possible. Only cost you fifty cents. The train boy has the book, I think. Well, I must get off here. Good-by."

"Good-by. Say (addressing the conductor), who is that red headed man?"

"I don't know his name," the conductor replied. "He is the author of a book called 'Sedge — ass Ranch.'"—Arkansas Traveler.

Mercly Paternal Pride.

When Col. Evergreen came down town the other morning several of his teeth were missing, his eyes were of a blue black, and his nose looked discolored and uncomfortable.

Still he wore a beaming smile.

"Colonel," remarked a friend, "what are you grinning about with your face pounded up like that?"

"The fact is," responded the colonel, feelingly, "I have always believed that my son Henry would never amount to anything. He grew impudent this morning, and I endeavored to correct him with an old fence rail. To my surprise and delight he sailed into me and licked me all around the barn and across a ten acre field. I tell you he has in him the qualities of one of nature's noblemen."—Lincoln Journal.

THE SQUEERS SCHOOL.

DOTHEBOYS HALL, WHICH CHARLES DICKENS' PEN BROKE UP.

The Old Institution of Torture for Sale. Situated in Bowes, Yorkshire—The Village Is Going to Decay—Conflicting Testimony.

A word of advice here to intending pilgrims: Do not allude to Charles Dickens or to Squeers' school, except in the presence of those whom you know to be above common prejudices and animosities. These subjects may be said, to use an expression more forcible than elegant, to stink in the nostrils of your true Bowes man. He believes that the village owes its decay entirely to the abolition of Yorkshire schools in general and of Dotheboys Hall in particular. He points to the fact that whereas half a century ago Bowes had close upon 2,000 inhabitants, it has now short of 400. He has never read "Nicholas Nickleby," nor would he if a copy could be found in the place. If you question him about the school, he will either tell you flatly that he knows nothing about it, or will evasively refer you to other places infamous from their schools.

Of course, all Bowes folk do not share these prejudices, as we shall afterwards see; but the broad fact remains that Bowes, which was ruined in common with many hundreds of country places standing on our great roads elsewhere by the withdrawal of the stage coaches, must be humored if the visitor hopes to reap any profit from his exploration.

We pass by a grand old inn, once known as the George, now the Unicorn, and, with the little Norman church and the grim keep of the old Norman castle on our left, push on to Dotheboys Hall, which is the last house in the village.

"A long, cold looking house, one story high, with a few straggling outbuildings behind and a barn and stable adjoining." So we read. The house itself is unaltered, save that it is now decidedly the pleasantest and most cheerful looking dwelling in the village, with its creeper embowered windows looking on to a trim and well kept garden. The stable and barn, too, remain; but the outbuildings, in which was comprised the school house proper—the scene of the merciless thrashings, the starvation, the breaking of young hearts, the wrecking of young lives, the revolting misery and the blood stirring barbarity—they have long disappeared.

A woman's face looks out from a lower window, and we are about to turn in at the front gate, but our guide stops us, saying: "Not that way! No admittance there! You would be asked if you wanted to buy the house, and have the door slammed in your face."

So we follow the path and turn in through the barn door. This leads us into a yard, where still stands the identical pump which it may be remembered Mr. Squeers discovered to be frozen the morning after the long coach ride from London.

From here we enter the kitchen—cautiously and silently, for the servant tells us that if her master discovered us we should assuredly be turned out with ignominy. There is nothing remarkable in the kitchen—a large, low, heavily rafftered apartment—nor in the little room leading from it, which was the schoolmaster's study.

But we linger a long while as we gaze at the marks on the wall by the modern cooking range, where stood the coppers wherein were boiled the potatoes which formed a principal part of the "young noblemen's" food, and as we peer through the study window, which the boys were set to clean when they had satisfactorily spelled "w-i-n-d-e-r, winder," on to the garden, whither they were dispatched to hoe and rake on the attainment of the word "bottiney," we ask if a great number of people do not come here bound upon the same errand as ourselves? The reply is that a great many come; but that as they go to the front door they do not get in at all, but have to content themselves with an exterior view of Dotheboys Hall, so that we may deem ourselves lucky to have seen even the little we have.

WHAT THE RESIDENTS SAY.

So much for Dotheboys Hall itself. Still more interesting is the information we managed to pick up from various sources concerning Squeers and his school.

All our informants, country clergymen, intelligent residents, "oldest inhabitants," and such natives as did not feel themselves in honor bound to keep their mouths shut, agreed on one point, that the system of Yorkshire schools was monstrous and iniquitous to an incredible extent; that frightful cruelties were practiced upon the boys—who were chiefly the illegitimate offspring of London parents—but that the school typified by Charles Dickens was the only one to which he could gain access, and was the best of the lot.

But in other respects the evidence was so conflicting that we must simply give it without pronouncing any opinion on its value or the reverse. For instance, one woman, a native of Bowes, whose sympathies one would naturally imagine to be with the maligned Squeers, told us that she distinctly remembered the boys coming in summer time to her father's field to help get in the hay, goaded to the work of horses by ushers armed with whips.

On the other hand, a gentleman whose father, being a schoolmaster, used to go up to the Saracen's Head with and on the same errand as Squeers, declared that the one eyed schoolmaster was an estimable man, who cared for his pupils properly and was generally respected and liked. He further stated that his father related to him how he happened to be at the Saracen's Head with Squeers after the Dotheboys Hall number of "Nicholas Nickleby" had taken the public by storm; that the crowd literally besieged the inn, with the intention of lynching Squeers; that the commotion had such an effect upon the schoolmaster as to deprive him of reason, and that Mrs. Squeers died of a broken heart.—Temple Bar.

WHAT IS LIFE?

The Vital Question Discussed from Various Standpoints.

One day, when the feathered songsters in the woods were tired of singing, there was a long pause. All was quiet and nature itself seemed lost in meditation.

Suddenly the philosophical bullfinch piped, "What is life?" to which a little songster among the leaves replied, "Life is a song."

"No, a battle in the dark," said the ground mole, who just poked his head out of the ground in the vicinity of the tree among whose branches the little bird was hopping around.

"To my mind it is an unfolding," declared the rosebud, which was just ready to unfold its beautiful leaves, to the great delight of a magnificent butterfly, which did not hesitate to kiss the pretty flower, with these words: "Life is full of idle joy and pleasure."

"Stay, rather, a short summer day," hummed a jealous one day fly buzzing past.

"I mean that life changes ever with work and pleasure," mentioned the bee, and it disappeared in the leaves of the rosebud to gather honey.

"I do not see that it is anything else than idle worry," complained the little ant, dragging a blade of straw, which in comparison to itself was unnaturally long.

"Yes, you are right," a little rabbit nodded from the hazel bush; "life, as sure as I live, is a hard nut to crack."

"Life is an ever changing consciousness," said the thunder cloud floating toward the ocean. The ocean waves broke against the shore and sighed, "Life is a steady battle for freedom."

"No, you are mistaken, it is freedom," jubilantly said the eagle, sailing through the air with his powerful wings.

"Ah, it is poor earth," moaned the weed, working its way out of moor and stone.

The high cedars bowed to each other to the earth saying: "Life is striving ever upwards." And a ripple sounded through the tops of the trees until the pasture cried sorrowfully: "Life is rather given up to a higher power!"

Night had broken in and the solemn dome prelate advised: "Let us rest, my friends. As there was no satisfactory answer given we will resume our debate tomorrow."

"For all I care you may do that," breathed the night. "But life is only a dream."

The still night ruled over the city and country and soon morning would draw near. The student, who was sitting in his out-of-the-way garret, lost in meditation, blew out his little lamp and murmured: "Life is only a school."

Footsteps were heard on the deserted streets. A tired citizen was going home to rest, after spending the night in going from pleasure to pleasure, in spite of which he complained: "Life is an unsatisfied longing and steady disappointment."

"It is a riddle," stammered the new born morning wind.

Suddenly a glimmering light rose upon the horizon. Higher and higher climbed the magic light over the top of the woods. The red morning light greeted the earth and like a mighty chord it sounded through the universe: "Life is only a beginning.—From the German."

Made Rich by Molasses Cakes.

Maria Bivins, a well known colored woman residing near this town, is dead. She was 56 years old, and for more than thirty years she has been engaged in making and selling molasses cakes, from which she accumulated a comfortable little fortune. Both she and her husband were born in slavery, as were several of their children. She had accumulated enough money before the war to purchase the liberty of herself and husband, and during the war she made enough money out of the Federal soldiers quartered here to purchase her children. After the war she bought a farm near this town, on which she employed her husband, paying him seventy-five cents a day during the spring and summer months, and fifty cents during the winter. She used two barrels of flour every month in the manufacture of cakes, always making 3,600 cakes out of each barrel. During the long period she was engaged in this business, it was estimated she had made nearly 4,000,000 of cakes. She was an honest, industrious woman, and enjoyed the respect of all who knew her.—Onancock (Va.) Special.

Sea Anchors.

Experiments have lately been tried at Dover with a so called sea anchor, invented by Capt. Waters. This apparatus consists of a canvas bag about four feet in diameter and five feet deep, with either a strong hoop to hold it open or a square bolted frame to answer the same purpose. The bag is attached to a beam, or float, in such a manner that it lies just below the surface of the water, and a stout rope forms the connection between it and the bow of the vessel employing it. The object of this sea anchor is to bring a boat or ship's head to the sea when in danger of foundering from getting broadside toward waves. There is nothing very new in the idea, for such a contrivance has frequently been extemporized with advantage. The veteran aeronaut, Green, also constructed an anchor to hold a balloon near the surface of the sea, which was almost identical in form to the one.—New York Telegram.

Few Divorces in Ireland.

Whatever may be said for or against the Irish people, there is certainly one respect in which they may challenge the admiration of the world, namely, in matrimonial fidelity. In the recently issued tables giving statistics on the subject of divorce our own country leads in having granted nearly half a million divorces during the twenty years past, but there have been eleven divorces throughout the length and breadth of Erin during that period. Protestant or Catholic, in happiness or abuses, the Irish continue the partnership until it is dissolved by death.—Boston Traveller.

LONG LIFE

There is nothing in the world more generally desired than long life, yet the majority of people put off caring for their health—not because they are really careless, but because we live our lives at such a pace we have not time to give the subject sufficient thought until we receive a reminder in the shape of a severe illness.

Then, too, we are constantly bewildered by the various schools of medicine, and the physicians who represent them, and often blunder in our choice of a doctor.

If people only knew that the very best health-keeper, life-preserver, and disease-preventer that has yet been discovered, is simmered down into a concentrated and very palatable form in the shape of New Style Pleasant Taste Vinegar Bitters, they would not hesitate a moment to try it.

But they do not know. How can they know, when so many not only worthless, but positively injurious drugs are constantly flooding the market under various names guises, that the New Style Vinegar Bitters is as bad as any of them?

They do not know, of course, unless they have the courage to try the New Style. It straightens out a tangled-up system in a very short while, and those who buy it once buy it always.

Why don't you try it, reader? It is sent out by a responsible house, and is exactly as represented. It costs but a dollar for a very large bottle. Try it once and you will never be so glad of anything in your life. Your druggist may not have it, but he will order it for you. Be sure it says New Style Pleasant Taste on carton and bottle before you take it. Try it, and you will feel happier than if you had found a gold mine, for it really is a mine—of health.

Free from alcohol and opium; composed of expensive herbs and roots, with a fine, delicate flavoring.

PLEASANT INSTRUCTION FOR OUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

A Brief but Entertaining Description of the Eiffel Tower—How Visitors May Reach the Very Top of This High Structure.

The Washington monument is no longer the highest structure in the world. This distinction, since March, 1889, belongs to the Eiffel tower, built in Paris on the Champ de Mars, at the entrance to the grounds where the World's Exposition began this May. The projector of this tower, Monsieur Eiffel, a distinguished French engineer, encountered much opposition. It was prophesied that such a structure must fall by its own weight—nearly 40,000,000 pounds, that it could not resist the pressure of heavy wind storms and, finally, that if it proved stable the great mass of iron would magnetize everything in Paris.

M. Eiffel met all these objections by going ahead and building his tower, which is pronounced perfectly safe, and visitors to this feature of the exposition need not fear to make the ascent. No one can fall out of the elevators or off the stairways, and every part of the structure is protected from lightning.

To give some conception of this tremendous structure, 1,000 feet in height and dwarfing everything around it into absolute insignificance, Golden Days, from which the cut is reproduced, describes it as follows:

The Seine, at its base, looks like a very small gutter along a footpath, the gilt dome of the Invalides resembles a pin cushion, and the Trocadero, opposite, is only visible because it stands on a hill. This wonderful tower is of cast iron, of pyramidal form, and the extreme height is 1,000 feet. It rests on four pillars, which are 322 feet apart, and the arch has a height of 161 feet.

The first story is 192 feet from the ground, and has a gallery 48 feet wide, where cafes, restaurants and waiting rooms have been fitted up. The second story is 450 feet from the ground, and there is another gallery, 30 feet wide. From this point the tower narrows more rapidly, and runs up to what looks like a small point from the ground below, but there is room enough in the balcony and cupola for hundreds of people to stand and look, not only all over Paris, but for a distance of ninety miles in any direction. Access to the first gallery is had by four elevators. From this landing the visitor may either go the top of the tower by the elevators or walk up by one of the four stairways.

The Mountain of the Bell.

Nature is filled with music. Away out amid the solitudes of Mount Sinai, the mountain famed in story and in song, the hill called Gibel Nakus (Mountain of the Bell), there are musical tones that are heard distinctly, and have excited much comment concerning their origin. When one stands on the western side, facing the Red sea, not the slightest sound is heard. But the Arab guide will bid us remain at the bottom while he goes up the slope. As he sinks in the sand nearly to his knees at every step we hear faint sounds resembling the tones of the violin.

As the rattling sand increases, setting in motion "each grain a grain many times," soon a rustling sound is heard, and then low, mellow, musical tones, increasing gradually to that of a deep church bell, finally pealing low and loud like distant thunder. When the entire surface is in motion, one can imagine what the sensation would be if one were sitting upon some enormous musical instrument while a bow was slowly drawn across its strings. In a short time the sand settles, sound waves no longer vibrate, and all is still again.

TIMOTHY MOSES AND HIS MISTRESS.

When he goes hunting so keen his nose is,
His sharp eyes quiver, his round eyes glisten,
If a cricket stirs he stops to listen;
Not a mouse can hide from Timothy Moses

Home at last the weary rover
Stretches himself in a long cat nap;
Or curled in a ball on his mistress' lap,
Dozes and dreams his battles over.

Take Your Choice.

There are two very ancient poems concerning feminine whistlers, and as they are of diametrically opposite opinions everybody can be satisfied with the one or the other. The first runs:

Whistling girls and crowing hens
Always come to some bad ends.

The other is more charitable:

Whistling girls and bleating sheep
Are the best property a man can keep.

THE CURIOSITY SHOP.

Statistics of Interest—Languages, Duration of Life, Births and Deaths.

A German statistician says: There are, at present, 3,064 languages spoken by the inhabitants of our globe, whose religious convictions are divided between 1,000 different confessions of faith. The number of males is nearly equal to that of the females. The average duration of life is 33 years. One-fourth of the population of the earth dies before attaining the seventeenth year. Of 1,000 persons only one reaches the age of 100 years, and not more than six that of 65 years. The entire population of the globe is upward of 1,300,000,000, of whom 35,214,000 die every year, 96,480 every day, 4,020 every hour, 67 every minute and 1 and a fraction every second.

On the other hand the births amount to 36,792,000 every year, 100,800 every day, 4,200 every hour, 70 every minute, 1 and a fraction every second. Married people live longer than the unmarried, the temperate and industrious longer than the gluttons and idle, and civilized nations longer than the uncivilized. Tall persons enjoy a greater longevity than small ones. Persons born in spring have a more robust constitution than those born at other seasons. Births and deaths occur more frequently at night than in the daytime. Only one-fourth of the male inhabitants of the globe grow up to carry arms or perform military service.

Indications of Eyes.

There are persons who profess to interpret character by the lines on the palms of the hands, the color of the eyes, the hand writing and some other personal peculiarities. To what extent such interpretations are correct, of course, we cannot say. As to the color of the eyes being a test, the explanation as we find it is as follows:

Clear, light blue, with calm, steadfast glance, denote cheerfulness, good temper, constancy.

Blue, with greenish tints, are not so strongly indicative of these traits, but a slight propensity to greenish tints in eyes of any color is a sign of wisdom and courage.

Pale blue or steel colored, with shifting motion of eyelids and pupils, denote deceitfulness and selfishness.

Gray or greenish gray, with orange and blue shades and ever varying tints, are the most intellectual, and are indicative of the impulsive, impressionable temperament—the mixture of the sanguine and bilious which produces poetic and artistic natures.

Light brown or yellow denote inconstancy; green, deceit and coquetry. Eyes of no particular color (only some feeble shades of blue or gray, dull, expressionless, dead looking) belong to the lymphatic temperament and denote a listless, feeble disposition and a cold, selfish nature.

Where Fruits Were First Found.

Lemons were used by the Romans to keep moths from their garments, and in the time of Pliny they were considered an excellent poison. They are natives of Asia. Spinach is a Persian plant. Horse radish is a native of England. Melons were found originally in Asia. Filberts originally came from Greece. Quinces originally came from Corinth. The turnip originally came from Rome. The peach originally came from Persia. Sage is a native of the south of Europe. Sweet marjoram is a native of Portugal. The bean is said to be a native of Egypt. Damsons originally came from Damascus. The nasturtium came originally from Peru. The pea is a native of the south of Europe. Ginger is a native of the East and West Indies. Coriander seed came originally from the east. The cucumber was originally a tropical vegetable. The gooseberry is indigenous to Great Britain. Apricots are indigenous to the plains of America. Pears were originally brought from the east by the Romans. Capers originally grew wild in Greece and Northern Africa. The walnut is a native of Persia, the Caucasus and China. The clove is a native of the Malacca Islands, as also is the nutmeg. Vinegar is derived from two French words, vin aigre, sour wine.

Draxy's Hymn.

The following poem occurs in Saxe Holmes' story, "Draxy Miller's Dowry," and is known as "Draxy's Hymn:"

I cannot think but God must know
About the thing I long for so;
I know he is so good, so kind,
I cannot think but he will find
Some way to help, some way to show
Me to the thing I long for so.

I stretch my hand, it lies so near,
It looks so sweet, it looks so dear.
"Dear Lord," I pray, "Oh, let me know
If it is wrong to want it so."
He only smiles—He does not speak;
My heart grows weaker and more weak
With looking at the thing so dear,
Which lies so far and yet so near

Now, Lord, I leave at thy loved feet
This thing that looks so near, so sweet;
I will not seek, I will not long—
I almost fear I have been wrong.
I'll go and work the harder, Lord,
And wait till by some loud, clear word,
Thou callest me to Thy loved feet,
To take this thing so dear, so sweet.

Education and Calling of Presidents.

Of presidents of the United States in business life, Washington was a surveyor; Jackson worked in a harness shop; Taylor, a farmer; Fillmore, a cloth maker's apprentice; Lincoln, a boatman and woodchopper; Johnson, a tailor; Grant, a tanner; Garfield, a canaler; John Adams, Arthur and Cleveland, teachers. The Adamses, father and son, were Harvard college graduates. John Quincy Adams was a professor at Harvard. Madison graduated from Princeton college, and Jefferson, Monroe and Tyler received their sheepskins at William and Mary college, Virginia. Old Gen. Harrison graduated from the Hampden-Sidney college, Polk from the North Carolina university, Pierce from Bowdoin college, Buchanan at Dickinson college, and Grant at West Point. William's college was Garfield's alma mater. Hayes was trimmed at Kenyon college, Arthur at Union college and Harrison at Miami university.

Some Odd Epitaphs.

A writer in The Boston Transcript says, with regard to curious epitaphs:

I have been much interested in the quaint and curious epitaphs recently published in your columns, and I send two others to keep them company.

From an old graveyard in Belgrade, Me.:

Though greedy worms devour my skin,
And gnaw my wasting flesh,
Yet God will raise my bones again,
And clothe them out afresh.

"This sudden death which by a fall proclaims a loud and solemn call to all the friends and neighbors too prepare to bid this world adieu."

There is no arrangement of lines, no punctuation at all and no capital but the first.

The Alsatian bow bonnet is the particular fashion of the year, and in one of the models the bow is made of broad black watered ribbon, and is a faithful copy of the veritable peasant headdress.

AFTER A CLEW.

"I'll follow him to the ends of the earth! He shall not escape me!"

The tall, powerfully built man, attired in a suit of dark blue, who hissed these words through his set teeth, stood in the shadow of a one story coal house in a dark, noisome, Philadelphia-like alley, and watched with widely staring eyes a figure moving slowly along down the Hong Kong district of Clark street.

The watcher was wide awake, and the saloons had not yet closed for the night.

It was evident he was not a policeman.

Emerging from the alley he followed stealthily the object of his pursuit like a sleuth hound on track of its prey. Moving along in the shadow of the buildings and halting now and then, but never relaxing for one instant his eager watchfulness, he kept his man in sight for nearly an hour.

Down Clark to Harrison, west on Harrison to the river, across the bridge to Canal, up Canal to Monroe, and westward on that street for many and many a weary block moved this singular—or rather plural—procession.

"He little thinks he is followed," muttered the relentless pursuer. "I'll shadow him to his lair now if it takes till the next centennial!"

At last the man whom he was following halted at a modest dwelling, opened the gate that afforded entrance to the little yard in front, and as he turned to close it his face, plainly visible in the glare of a street lamp close by, was for one brief moment exposed to the hawk-like gaze of the mysterious pursuer in the dark blue suit, who had crouched in the shadow of a friendly Indian cigar sign across the way. The next instant he had disappeared within the house.

With a smothered cry of exultation the eager watcher took out a note book and pencil and jotted down a memorandum. His fingers trembled with excitement.

"I saw his face!" he said in a hysterical whisper. "I was not mistaken. And now I have his street and number. At last I am on the trail. If he finds out anything about that mysterious disappearance I'll know just where he goes to get it. Ha! At last! At last!"

* * * * * * *

He was a high priced detective shadowing a $15 a week newspaper reporter to see if he could find some clew to the latest mystery that was baffling the entire force.—Detroit Free Press.

Not a Deceiver.

"That's the way with some of these aristocrats," he observed, as he leaned against a telegraph pole and held a wet rag to his eye. "They are full of deceit from top to bottom."

"How did it happen?" asked the pedestrian who had halted to offer his sympathies.

"Two blocks down—house a red brick. I called to strike the woman for a quarter. Man sat on the steps. He looked thin and pale and weak. Wanted to know what I was after, you know. Looked upon him as small potatoes and advised him to keep quiet. He jumped up and shed his coat."

"Was that all?"

"Not quite. Squared off and knocked me into the middle of next week, and then picked me up and threw me over the fence into the street. Blamed deceiver, he was. Had muscle like an ox, and he put up his dukes just as handy as Sullivan. Say, stranger, did he black both my eyes?"—Detroit Free Press.

Mission Dolores.

"I am on three missions, sir," replied the poor young man, who was also a humorist.

"Permission to marry your daughter, admission to your family circle and sub-mission to the regulations of your household."

"Ugh!" grunted the old man, who was something of a joker himself. "I have one little mission to offer before I conclude any arrangement with you."

"Name it," cried the poor young man eagerly. "I will only be too glad to perform it."

"Dis-mission!" shrieked the old man with a loud, discordant laugh, and the poor young man fell dead at his feet.—Washington Critic.

"Yes'm," said Johnny.

—Parties in the vicinity of the STAR office were given an exhibition of a man throwing his wife down a flight of stairs, then striking her on the head, and then walking calmly up town. Joel Straub and wife were the conspicuous parties. Mayor Conley and Marshal Redd soon began an investigation, and the Mayor ordered Straub's arrest.

A young man, who does not bear an enviable reputation about town, was arrested one evening this week for insulting a highly respectable young lady upon the streets. Before being brought into the police court on the charge, he succeeded in compromising with the lady and the matter was dropped. The affair was not given publicity and was kept very quiet because of the high standing of the young lady. Such cases as this are becoming entirely too frequent and it is no uncommon occurrence to hear complaints of ladies being insulted while passing along the streets. The authorities should have no mercy in the prosecution of parties arrested on a charge of this kind.

—Riley & Wright have purchased the Watkins bus line, and took possession today at noon. This ends the war which has been carried on for the past few weeks with so much vigor, and it certainly could not have ended more satisfactorily, although Watkins Bros. were untiring and energetic in the work, prompt in business and furnished good accommodation. Riley & Wright are their equal in every way and with the two lines together they will no doubt be able to furnish better accommodations to passengers, as they are experienced in the hack business, and exhibit great pride in fine turnouts. Marion may expect a fine in the near future that it may well be proud of.

A Three Legged Lamb.

John Berry has a curiosity in the shape of a three legged lamb, which is minus even the sign of a right fore leg. It also has no head decorated with a couple hanging combs, like that of the turkey. Berry is feeding the lamb carefully and it promises to thrive, and its owner confidently expects it to grow into a prime side show attraction.

At Christ or Church.

Evangelist Updike's subject, "Is the Righteous Scarcely Saved Where Will the Sinner and the Ungodly Appear?" was presented under the following heads: "Legal Righteousness," "Self Righteousness" and "Righteousness." Examples.—The young man coming to Christ and asking "What good thing must I do?", the Pharisee and Publican and doing the will of God, i. e., cutting loose from everything that in any way comes between us and our Savior, giving up all for Christ. The speaker's desire was to awaken his auditors with the declarations in God's word to the necessity of doing the will of God as made known in the Bible rather than the thought of simply joining some church or living a good moral life.

At the conclusion of his most earnest talk one young man and a little girl made the good confession, after which the little girl was baptized as a profession of her faith in Christ.

The meetings will continue every night, and on Lord's day night will be held at Music Hall. Song service at 7:30, sermon at 8 p. m. Without doubt we expect Prof. Hawes to be with us tonight and to sing some of his soul-stirring solos. Everybody invited.

A Three Legged Lamb.

John Berry has a curiosity in the shape of a three legged lamb, which is minus even the sign of a right fore leg. It also has no head decorated with a couple hanging combs, like that of the turkey. Berry is feeding the lamb carefully and it promises to thrive, and its owner confidently expects it to grow into a prime side show attraction.
